Fun ways to learn at home

Epic Books – a website with over 10,000 books available to read online. We use this resource often in the classroom and the students love it. For those interested, a subscription is available to parents for a small monthly fee.

There are many exciting events planned for February. Stay tuned for further details!

What we have been learning about

- We have been reading lots of books about Polar Bears. The students have learned lots of interesting facts.
- In math we are learning about the many ways we measure time (seasons, months, days, hours...).

Ask your child about these topics. Talking about their learning is a great way to help them remember and reinforce the concepts.

Book Orders

The January book orders have been placed. A reminder that students can still use their Christmas Book Coupon in the upcoming month's Scholastic orders towards any purchase.

We have been having movement breaks in class to help us get energized for learning. We are using the website gonoodle.com parents can also sign up for this website so students can continue the fun at home.

As a class surprise, part of our happy jar reward, we earned extra recess. It was so much fun having the playground to ourselves!
